12	RUBY LOZADA,	ORDER ADOPTING REPORT
13	Defendant.	AND RECOMMENDATION AND REMANDING ACTION
14	4

On November 27, 2012, Defendant Ruby Lozada, proceeding pro se, filed a notice of removal and an application to proceed in forma pauperis. Without consent, on March 11, 2013, this matter was reassigned to the undersigned from Magistrate Judge Maria-Elena James with a Report and Recommendation to remand this action. The undersigned has received no objections. For the reasons set forth in the remainder of this Order, the Court HEREBY REMANDS this action to the Solano County Superior Court.

On May 14, 2012, Plaintiff filed a complaint for unlawful detainer in Solano County Superior Court against Defendant (the "State Court action"). (See Notice of Removal.) Defendant removed the State Court action on the basis that jurisdiction is premised upon a federal question. (See Notice of Removal.) "[A]ny civil action brought in a State court of which the district courts of the United States have original jurisdiction, may be removed by the defendant ... to the district court of the United States for the district and division embracing the place where such action is pending." Franchise Tax Bd. v. Constr. Laborers Vacation Trust, 463 U.S. 1, 7-8 (1983) (citation omitted); see also 28 U.S.C. § 1441.

However, federal courts are courts of limited jurisdiction. See, e.g., Kokkonen v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 511 U.S. 375, 377 (1994). Accordingly, the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction for purposes of removal is on the party seeking removal, and the removal statute is strictly construed against removal jurisdiction. Valdez v. Allstate Ins. Co., 372 F.3d 1115, 1117 (9th Cir. 2004); see also Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir. 1992). "Federal jurisdiction must be rejected if there is any doubt as to the right of removal in the first instance." Gaus, 980 F.2d at 566.

"The presence or absence of federal-question jurisdiction is governed by the 'wellpleaded complaint rule." Caterpillar Inc. v. Williams, 482 U.S. 382, 392 (1987). The wellpleaded complaint rule recognizes that the plaintiff is the master of his or her claim. "[H]e or she may avoid federal jurisdiction by exclusive reliance on state law." Id. Thus, under the well-pleaded complaint rule, federal-question jurisdiction arises where the "complaint establishes either that federal law creates the cause of action or that the plaintiff's right to relief necessarily depends on resolution of a substantial question of federal law." Franchise Tax Bd., 463 U.S. 1, 27-28 (1983).

The State Court action is an unlawful detainer action and, thus, federal law does not create the cause of action. Moreover, the Court concludes that the claim will not necessarily depend upon the resolution of a substantial question of federal law, because Plaintiff need not prove compliance with the federal law relied upon by Defendant to establish its claim. See, e.g., Grable & Sons Metal Prods. v. Darue Eng. & Mfg., 545 U.S. 308, 314-15 (2005). The Court also finds there is no basis for diversity jurisdiction as the amount in controversy does not meet the jurisdictional threshold. See Cal. Civ. Pro. § 86(a)(4); 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a).

Furthermore, a court cannot exercise removal jurisdiction on the ground that the complaint gives rise to a potential or an anticipated defense that might raise a federal question, even if the defense is the only question truly at issue in the case. Franchise Tax Board, 463 U.S. at 10, 14; see also Caterpillar, 482 U.S. at 393 ("[I]t is now settled law that a case may not be removed to federal court on the basis of a federal defense, including the defense of preemption, even if the defense is anticipated in the plaintiff's complaint, and even if both parties concede that the federal defense is the only question truly at issue.") (emphasis in original).

Therefore, the Court finds that it lacks subject matter jurisdiction to hear this matter and must remand to the state court. See 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c); see also Maniar v. FDIC, 979 F.2d 782, 785 (9th Cir. 1992).
Accordingly, the Court ADOPTS the Report and Recommendation and REMANDS to Accordingly, the Court ADOPTS the Report and Recommendation and REMANDS this case to Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Solano. The Clerk shall transfer the file forthwith.
